This national policy review provides a detailed analysis of Madagascar's educational policies and their alignment with the Erasmus+ programme. It offers official, first-hand information into the country's engagement with Erasmus+ from 2021 to 2024, highlighting opportunities for improvement and identifying strategies to enhance integration and outcomes. Prepared and submitted by the Erasmus+ National Focal Point, this review contributes to ongoing efforts to strengthen international cooperation and to maximise the benefits of the Erasmus+ programme in Madagascar.

Reviews of policies, initiatives, projects, and/or stakeholders

Education Sector Plan

The last significant policy affecting international credit mobility in Madagascar is the Education Sector Plan from 2018. Over the past three years, no further actions have been taken in this area. Madagascar has faced several challenges in higher education and offers solutions to address them. The policy highlights international credit mobility as crucial for improving education quality and increasing graduates' employability.

Legislative reforms and/or policies that have been put in place in the past three years or that are still being discussed

World Bank within the Vision 2024

The latest education policy reform, as part of Vision 2024 and guided by the World Bank, focuses on improving the quality of education. While the document does not explicitly highlight the role of international credit mobility, it underscores the importance of ensuring high-quality education as a key priority.

Initiatives and/or programmes that have been launched in the past three years

REUNION Programme

The REUNION Programme aims to foster cooperation in areas such as training, research, and mobility to boost the competitiveness of islands in the Indian Ocean region. Key sectors include sustainable development, climate change, renewable energy, food security, health, and the humanities. Inspired by the Erasmus+ program, REUNION is the first large-scale, multilateral supervised mobility program in the region, benefiting students and staff from universities across the Indian Ocean. It seeks to enhance skills and qualifications by encouraging greater mobility and exchange between countries in the region.
